

Progressive® Insurance goes into 'Beast Mode' for the biggest game of the year

Running Back Marshawn Lynch sits down with Kenny Mayne for pre-game interview and raises money for a good cause

MAYFIELD VILLAGE, Ohio — January 27, 2015 — What will—or won't—running back Marshawn Lynch say to reporters leading up to the big game? It's a question that's been asked across the sports world for months. Football's most enigmatic player has been tight-lipped as of late, but Lynch had plenty to say in an 80-second interview that went live before Tuesday's Media Day event.

The tongue-in-cheek digital video, which was also made into a 30-second version for TV, has fun with Lynch's propensity to be less-than-talkative. The content features Lynch being interviewed with another man who marches to the beat of his own drummer, sports personality Kenny Mayne. Mayne's deadpan yet funny delivery brings out the best in Lynch, in a lightly-branded video that resembles a classic Kenny Mayne interview.

"Marshawn Lynch just offers a lot for us to like," said Progressive Chief Marketing Officer Jeff Charney, "and that made him a natural to work with. Like us, he 'zigs where others zag,' on and off the field. One thing people might not know about him is that he's heavily involved in the community—in fact he's giving a portion of what he made filming with us to charity. He's also a fan of Flo, which comes across in his interview with Kenny."

Aligning with Lynch's community involvement, Progressive will auction off a pair of cleats signed by Marshawn, with 100% of the proceeds going to his charity the Fam 1st Family Foundation. The auction will go live on Thursday, January 29 and close on Sunday, February 1. To view the auction, visit <http://givingworks.ebay.com/progressive/?rm1vSB=true>.

"Some brands choose to spend their money on a big expensive ad at this time of year, and that's okay, but it's not us," continued Charney. "Instead we decided to use our dollars to raise money for a good cause, one that aligns with Marshawn and gets him talking."

When asked about working with Progressive, Lynch replied, "Yeah."
